

I'm the size of a baseball bat with a body that's long and flat

I blow my water spray to jet toward my prey

I have a mantle pale as jelly that hides my hearts and belly

And two big bulgy eyes
That take fish by surprise

Which mollusc am I?

Poem by Kim T. Harrison