What Am I?
A Riddle Poem

Raindrops plop on the slushy snow
It's time to wake! It's time to go!

My stripy fur feels warm again
Let's find a nest! Let's leave the den!

I zip past squirrel, hear his squeaks
I munch on nuts! I stuff my cheeks!

What Am I?

Answer: A chipmunk

About the Resource Creator

Kim T. Harrison creates fun poems that kids will enjoy and teachers will find useful! She is a certified ESL Instructor with a PhD in contemporary French literature and cultural studies. She has been teaching English and French language and literature since 1996 in a variety of settings, including universities, language schools, and around her kitchen table. In recent years, she has also transitioned to teaching online using digital tools. In addition to her teaching experience, Kim worked for over 15 years in the field of corporate communications and copywriting.

Kim loves the possibilities of language in all its forms and today finds joy in teaching languages, writing her own stories and poems, and creating resources to inspire students, teachers, and fellow writers. Kim currently lives on the beautiful Avalon Peninsula in Newfoundland, Canada, with her family.
