What Will You Make Today?

By Kim T. Harrison

On Monday I made a rocket ship

And flew it into space

On Tuesday I made a dinosaur

With a tail and bright blue face

On Wednesday I made a fire truck

And drove it down the street

On Thursday I made a unicorn

With a horn and four green feet

On Friday I made a giant crane

And rolled it up the hill

On Saturday I made a waddling duck

With a neck and yellow bill

On Sunday I made a racing car

And zoomed it round the track

And today we made a picture book

With our photos on the back

And you – What will you make today?

About Dr. Kim

Dr. Kim’s full name is Kim T. Harrison. She is a writer, poet, and teacher, who was born in England but moved to Canada a long time ago and now lives on the beautiful island of Newfoundland.

Dr. Kim can’t help fix a broken leg or a sore throat, but she can prescribe poetry reading and writing activities! She’s a “doctor” because she has a PhD in French literature and cultural studies. This means she’s read and written about A LOT of books and poems. When she was a kid, her favourite book had lots of different poems in it. She still reads these poems today and now writes her own because she loves the sound and feel of words, and the magic that happens when those words work together to create new worlds.
